LOTTERY 222 HAS OFFICIALLY ARRIVED!

Deaf Lottery 222 is here, along with your chance to level up your lifestyle!

What would it feel like to come home to $800,000? Will you be watching a movie with the family on the giant screen in your new media room, or relaxing in the parent's retreat in your new extension.

With our flexible $800,000 first prize, you can treat yourself to something truly special – tailored just to you.

No matter what your dream escape looks like, this is your moment to make it real.

But it's not just about the amazing prizes—it's about making a lasting impact. All proceeds go towards Deaf Connect's services, creating opportunities for every Deaf Australian to thrive. One of the key services that you're supporting is our Ageing Well program, which provides essential home care services in Auslan.

How would you spend $800,000? It all starts with Deaf Lottery 222.

AGEING WELL: ENSURING HOME CARE IN AUSLAN

For Deaf seniors, access to care in Auslan isn't just a convenience—it's a necessity. Deaf Connect's Ageing Well service was established with the intent to offer essential in-home care for our Deaf seniors in their own language, Auslan, empowering them to stay independent while remaining connected.

Deaf Connect General Manager for Ageing Well, Dr. Leena Vuorinen, shares:

"What sets this program apart is our unwavering commitment to providing care in Auslan. Communicating in their first language allows Deaf seniors to make informed choices, stay connected, and preserve their dignity every step of the way."

Operating across Queensland, New South Wales, the Australian Capital Territory, South Australia, Victoria, and Western Australia, Ageing Well helps Deaf seniors thrive in their own homes with tailored services that promote independence and autonomy.

From meal deliveries and cleaning to personal care, transport, home maintenance, and social connection, Ageing Well's empowerment approach ensures that Deaf seniors remain in their own homes for as long as possible.

Audrey's Story:
The Power of Auslan-Delivered Home Care

At 93 years old, Audrey Doonan lives in Brisbane, Queensland, surrounded by her children, grandchildren, and close friends. For years, she has relied on Deaf Connect's Ageing Well program to support her daily needs.

"I use Auslan to communicate with my support workers and planner, who also arranges interpreters for my medical appointments since most doctors don't know Auslan. Sometimes, when I go to places like the chemist, people want to talk to me, but I can't rely on lipreading, so I always ask them to write a note. In situations where I need to make decisions about my health or the kinds of support I receive at home, having Support Workers who use Auslan makes all the difference."

When Audrey was diagnosed with inoperable cancer last year, her Home Care Package was increased to provide additional support, giving her access to essential physiotherapy, meal deliveries, cleaning, social support, and transport.

With the right home care support, Audrey can continue living independently, surrounded by the people she loves.

Now's your chance to empower more Deaf seniors around Australia to thrive.
