With the Deaf Lottery, your million-dollar milestone could be just around the corner!

And the best part? Every ticket creates more magical moments for Deaf Australians right across the nation.

NATIONAL WEEK OF DEAF PEOPLE: WHERE DEAF CULTURE COMES TO LIFE

From 21-27 September, communities across Australia will celebrate National Week of Deaf People (NWDP) – a time to recognise Deaf culture, celebrate Auslan, and bring people together through shared experiences.

Thanks to Deaf Lottery supporters, Deaf Connect's Community & Capacity team is helping make these celebrations possible.

This year for NWDP, the team will be hosting community BBQs, Auslan-guided tours, picnics, youth activities and other events designed to foster connection, pride and belonging.

One of the staff members helping bring these events to life is Sue Jo Wright, Deaf Connect's Community Engagement Coordinator in New South Wales. Sue recently shared what the week means to her:

"To me, NWDP is a reminder of why we come together as a Deaf community. Life gets busy, but this gives us the opportunity to reconnect, celebrate our culture, language and identity, and remember why these connections are so important."

NWDP is also a wonderful opportunity for the wider community to learn more about us, helping to build understanding, break down barriers, and create a more inclusive community.

One of my favourite things is bringing people together across NSW while my colleagues do the same in their local communities around Australia.

People leave our events feeling connected, with a sense of belonging, making new friends, sharing knowledge, and feeling proud to be part of the Deaf community."

Your support means more people like Sue can continue unite the Deaf community.
